

When in doubt, LISTEN.

Feelings are never inappropriate, even when behaviors are.

Children raised in harsh environments often react to overwhelming feelings by blowing up, melting down, or shutting down. When we listen calmly without judging or punishing them, we provide a way for them to safely experience and vent their strong emotions.