

Be irrationally crazy about kids.

Children respond best to those who genuinely like them.

Children are drawn to those who can see the best in them. Cultivate a strength-based perspective and learn to see your most difficult kids through a positive lense. Your new outlook will change how you feel about them, and more importantly, how they feel about themselves.