

To the hammer, everything looks like a nail.

Don't try to use a single approach with every problem.

There's a tool for every job. A no-nonsense behavioral approach works well in some situations, but a gentle counseling approach is needed in others. Using different tools for different jobs makes us wise, not weak.